LOCATION: Academy Hall,
Columbia Academy Campus, Columbia, TN

Hall of Honor – Winston Elston reported that one nomination had been received to date. He also recommended that we wait to update the memorial with the names of the honorees until we have a few more names to be added. This is due to the expense involved in engraving the memorial. We should probably have it updated following the next group of inductees.

Tax Exempt Status – Don Kimbrell reported that the Association should get the tax exempt status within the next six weeks. All the work done over the last year was done “Pro Bono” by Don's son-in-law, Rick.

Dues Report and Class

Guard House Lease Signed...CMAAA Vice President and Museum Committee Chairman Woody Pettigrew hands over a signed copy of the 15 year lease of the Guard House to Mark McMeen, Columbia Academy Board of Directors Chairman. The Guard House is under renovation and scheduled for dedication at the August Reunion. Story on page 2.

Realignment – Bobby Bain reported that he was continuing to look at concepts to represent those who pay dues in the class realignment. This will hopefully encourage people to pay their dues as well as participate. Another factor affecting the realignment was the number of graduates in the older classes available to be part

CMAAA Fulfills Founders Directive, Leases Guard House for Museum

Mark McMeen, Columbia Academy Board of Directors Chairman, and Woody Pettigrew, Columbia Military Academy Alumni Association Vice President, finalized the arrangement between the Alumni Association and CA to lease the Guard House and convert it into a Columbia Military Academy Museum.

The establishment of a museum to maintain and display CMA artifacts has been the primary objective of the alumni association since its inception.

History

This arrangement is the result of several years of coordination between the two organizations, a year of deliberations by the CMAAA Board of Directors and nine months of fund raising. During the last CMA reunion in 2006, a CMA memorial was dedicated in the area of the old quadrangle on the campus and CMA banners were placed around the quadrangle, establishing a permanent, physical recognition of the long, proud history of CMA.

The CMA Museum is an extension of that recognition and will provide an appropriate location for the preservation and display of Columbia Military Academy memorabilia and artifacts. Restoration work on the Guard House Board Minutes from preceding page of the association. He is planning to continue to review concepts and will provide another report at the April 2008 meeting.

Museum Project – Woody Pettigrew reported on new estimates for the Museum Project. He reported that the new competing estimate on the restoration portion from a new contractor was significantly higher than the estimates from the original contractors and he recommended that we stay with the original contractors that are holding to the original costs they presented.

Woody went on to report that we had a group of students from MTSU under the direction of Mike Gavin that wanted to help put the layout for the Museum together. This will be a class project for college level students for has begun with initial efforts being made to repair the roof, front porch area, ceiling, and flooring.

August Dedication

Those efforts will be followed by painting, carpeting, and general interior “fix-ups”. As we approach the next reunion, display cases and artifacts will begin to be placed in the Museum. There is still a long way to go to have the Museum ready for the August 2008 CMAAA Reunion but the plan is in place to make that happen.

The Museum Committee consisting of Woody Pettigrew, Mike Gilchrist, Becky Moon, Johnny Gruber and Buddy Fisher will keep the association membership updated through regular updates in the Bugle. Anyone wishing to provide artifacts or any other support to the project should contact Woody Pettigrew at wpettigrew@westar.com or by phone at (256) 653-7303.

class credit. Woody has spoken with Mr. Gavin and says that he believes in the project and wants to help see that it is done right.

The biggest cost of the project will be to repair and reshingle the roof. The Maury County Historical Society has donated $2000.00 to this restoration. This will definitely help with the monies. To date it appears that we have approximately $115,000 available for the project. We will plan to solicit pledges over the next few months to get the remainder of the money.

With the tax exempt status for the association, it is believed that this will help with the pledges. Ron Nall ‘61 suggested that we have a “financial statement” put together so that we will know what we need to get the job done. Ed Tuggle ‘67, said we just needed to answer two questions prior to getting started – is it feasible and when can we

Before the vote was taken, Woody also reported on changes to the lease. After meetings with Dr England, the CA president; Dr Thrasher, CA President Emeritus; and James Bryant, CA Vice President for Business Affairs: along with the CA Executive Board Members Mark McMeen, CA Board President and Jason Golden, CA Lawyer; two changes were proposed. The first was for CA to have access to the Guard House during the course of the lease and the second was to shorten the lease to 15 years from 25 years as originally proposed. Some discussion took place following this that centered on the cost (per year) impacts because the lease would be shorter and the possibility of adding words to the effect that 2 five year options could be executed following the initial 15 year contract.

A motion was made following this discussion for the CMAAA Board of Directors to vote on. The motion read: “To allow the Museum Committee to execute a binding agreement for a lease”

The Motion was amended to add the following statement: “and that a provision for 2 Five Year Options to the lease to be executed after the 15 Years be added to the lease.”

A Voice Vote was taken and the Motion carried with 22 for executing a binding lease, 3 against executing a binding lease with 1 abstention.

(Documentation used in capturing the facts in these minutes is part of the permanent record of the association along with the Voice Vote for each board member in attendance at this specially called meeting.)

Following the vote it was pointed out by Woody Pettigrew ’73 that the CMAAA Bylaws state that the purpose of our Association is to establish a museum to preserve the CMA heritage, memorabilia, and artifacts of the school. This is the first serious step to meeting that requirement. We have also see Board Minutes, next page amended our Bylaws twice. The first was to recognize the Class of 79 as part of our Association and the second was to allow the immediate past president a vote on Association business. It was also mentioned that the Bylaws need to be updated in the future. This will be done soon by the Bylaws committee.

President Bill Raiford said that Bricks from Black Hall were still available for sale. If anyone is interested please contact him. To date we have sold approximately 20 bricks.

Grand Reunion Planning

Planning for The Grand Reunion for 2008 continues. Dates for the reunion are the 1st through 3rd of August 2008. Plans are to have the Friday night Social at the Graymere Country Club and the Saturday night dinner at the Saturn Union Hall in Spring Hill. Robin Saltze '66 will be in charge of registration and will need volunteers to help. If interested contact Robin. Rob Zimmerman '67 asks about the possibility of having windbreaker jackets for sale along with other items. Becky Moon '75 said that she could provide some information on these areas.

Planning for the Golf Tournament continues. It will be held at the Saddle Creek Golf Course.

Schedule of events are currently being worked with the Friday night get together at the Graymere Country Club, Saturday continental breakfast at the Columbia Academy (CA) Dining Hall (old CMA Mess Hall), Saturday General Membership meeting in Old Main Building with lunch at the CA Dining Hall and the Saturday Night Dinner and Dance at the Saturn Union Hall. Other ideas are being considered for the spouses and will be reported later.

"Heights" Challenge - Randy Howell '72 presented a proposal to the board on a challenge from our arch rivals "Heights". CHMAAA has

CMA Class of '73 and '76 United in Matrimony

September 29th, 2007 marks the latest date for a marriage between two Columbia Military Academy alumni.

Dudley Dolinger, '73 and Mildred (Graham) Raybuck, '76 were cadets together but now will share a life together as Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Dolinger.

The two hosted a picture-perfect outside wedding in Columbia on the last Saturday in September and then took off for a week in Mexico before settling down in Nashville, Tennessee.

Missing License

As the time for the ceremony approached, it was obvious that CMA cadets were involved; the groom forgot to bring the Marriage License (a revised fishing license was offered but the real license eventually showed up); Bill Patrick lounged around his hotel until minutes before the ceremony thinking the start time was later in the day; the Best Man was subject to good natured ribbing; and the groom was asking that some old pictures of him be taken off the internet.

Greg Thompson, '72 was the Best Man; other former CMA cadets in attendance included Bill Patrick, Woody Pettigrew, Leslie Shelton, Judy (Bone) Pettigrew, and Ann Edson.

Mexican Honeymoon

After the ceremony, the CMA crowd (including the Bride and Groom) celebrated together for a few hours before Dudley and Mildred took off for their honeymoon. It was another great day for CMA.

Mildred (Graham) Raybuck, Class of '76 and Dudley Dolinger, Class of '73, tied the knot in September in Columbia before leaving on their honeymoon to Mexico. A number of Alumni were on hand for the send off.

challenged CMAAA to an annual Golf Match with a rotating trophy for the winner. There will be two foursomes from each association playing in this annual event. The board voted on the proposal to institute an annual tournament between CHMAAA and

Museum Project Progress

by Woody Pettigrew

Our fundraising efforts to date have made it possible to move forward with the Guard House Museum Project and will support the museum as originally envisioned. Your generosity has enabled the refurbishing and stabilization of the old and historically significant Guard House and will allow CMA alumni and friends, as well as all visitors to the facility, to step back in time and reflect on Columbia Military Academy and the impact that it had on so many lives. The project is progressing with the renovation efforts being started in November and the concepts for exhibit layouts being explored. The Museum Committee is very confident that the Museum will be ready to open during the August 2008 reunion and is working to ensure the best possible product is delivered.

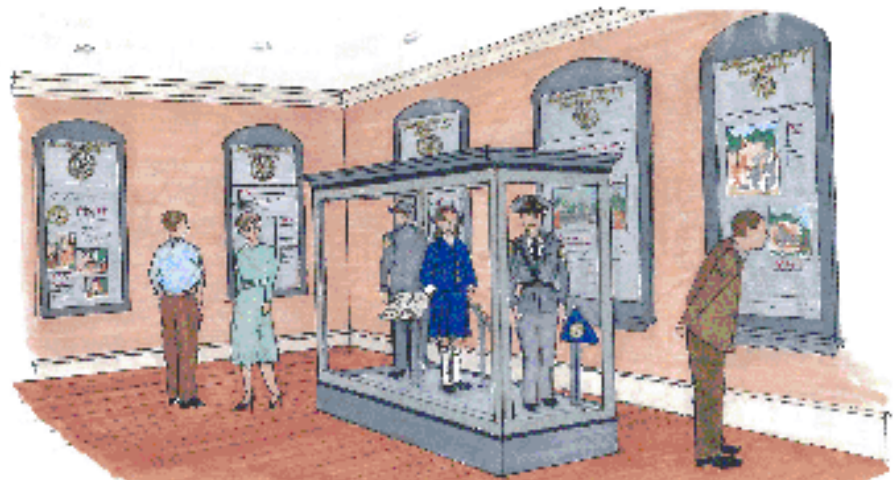

Our first focus is on the roof and the outside porch area. This provides both a structural and an aesthetic improvement to the Guard House. Other planned outside improvements include repair to the porch ceiling, painting, gutter repair and stone cleaning. Inside improvements that we hope to show with the next edition of the Bugle include ceiling repair, floor and bathroom repair, installation of new carpet and interior painting.

In terms of interior exhibits and layout, our original idea was to acquire used display cases and do as much work "in house" as possible to keep costs down. As we have considered options for the interior, we are hoping that we can evolve to a more permanent solution for telling and preserving the history and our collective experiences at CMA. The concept renderings shown represent the Museum Committee's ultimate goals for interpretation of the CMA legacy in the Museum. We envision using a large custom case in the main room to display and describe many of our artifacts and memorabilia, surrounded by large graphic panels built into the existing window encasements that trace the timeline, changes, heroes, and highlights of the school. We would also like to use the room in the front left of the Guard House to re-create a typical barracks diorama prepared for Saturday Morning Inspection.

While the artist's conceptions displayed here represent what we will do in terms of interior display, the final content (custom casework, large custom graphic panels, museum quality figures and artifact mounts, etc) is dependent on the funding capacity of our alumni and friends. We believe we only have one chance to do this right, and would rather ask you to help fund a permanent solution to our preservation objectives than to attempt upgrades at a later date. Many have already contributed and those contributions have made it possible for us to have a CMA Museum. Additional funds will help us develop the best possible displays and exhibits and enhance the experience of all Museum visitors. Our timelines dictate that we make decisions as soon as possible in terms of the costs that we can apply to displays and exhibits. If you would like to contribute to the project and help continue to develop and improve the Museum, please send your contribution to: Becky Moon, 804 Athenaeum Place Columbia, TN 38401-3156

1954 CMA Graduate Sells Pharmaceutical Business

William Propst, Sr, CMA Class of 1954, recently completed a major financial agreement with Apex Partners, a London-based private equity firm.

Huntsville-based Vintage Pharmaceuticals and its sister distribution company, Qualitest, have been bought by Apex. William Propst, the generic drugmaker's founder, was approached by Apex representatives several months ago about the possible sale and recently completed the deal that he believes will be good for not only his family but also the company's employees.

His pharmacy work then took him to K Mart where he helped start Qualitest, which distributed generic drugs through K Mart. He eventually purchased Qualitest from K Mart and also established Vintage, which ranks in the Top 10 in prescriptions filled among generic drug makers.

William and his family reside in Huntsville, Alabama.
