The COLUMBIA MILITARY ACADEMY

For Seventy Years . . . An Educational Tradition

The 67 acres of land where Columbia Military Academy is now sited was at one time a part of Polk plantation. Before the academy was started, an armory was here. This armory was founded by a Nashvillian named Colonel F.T. Wright whose idea for a national arsenal at Columbia was accepted on the 10th of May, 1888 when the president of the United States signed his approval. The citizens of Maury County bought the land and ceded it to the federal government for the site of the arsenal.

Frank Gordon was contracted to build the armory. Four buildings were to be of stone. This stone was bought from Lynneville, Hurricane Switch, and Bowling Green quarries. There were five more buildings constructed of brick bought locally in Columbia. All of the original buildings are still standing. These buildings were first used by the government for a harness factory during the 1890's. Later, under the McKinley administration, they were used to quarter the American soldiers who were in training for the Spanish-American war. In 1904 the property and its buildings were declared surplus property and recommended for conversion to a military academy. The property was conveyed by deed of trust to a board of trustees and their successors forever, so long as the property was operated as an educational institution and complied with the military curriculum approved by the Secretary of Defense. For seventy years, C.M.A. has met these requirements.

Columbia Military Academy Is On the Accredited List At West Point ...

Keeping High Academic Standards

CMA has always had as one of its prime objectives the preparation of students for higher education. Throughout the years, cadets have achieved high academic recognition and have distinguished themselves in many careers. With pride, CMA alumni have noted the respect forthcoming when they mention where they spent their high school years. Academic achievement on the part of CMA students is an on-going tradition.

Unmerited Punishment Will Not be Given—

23rd Spasm

CMA is my master, I fear to disobey;
It maketh me walk bullring;
It anointest my food with grease;
It burdenth me with demerits for discipline's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the rain and snow
I feel no dampness;
For my regulations raincoat and combat boots
protect me.

My commode runneth over.
Surely bullring and sarge will follow me all the days of my life
And I will dwell at CMA forever.

The Formal Military Elegance Has Enriched the Years

Elegance Is A Tradition

Some of the most memorable occasions in the history of CMA are distinguished by their elegance. There is nothing more impressive than the boys in full dress Military uniform, and the girls in lavish formals. One of the most beautiful scenes of this Military formality is a Queen being escorted through the arch of sabres performed by the cadet officers. This Military elegance has always been a part of the tradition of CMA.

THE ADMINISTRATION EXEMPLIES LEADERSHIP

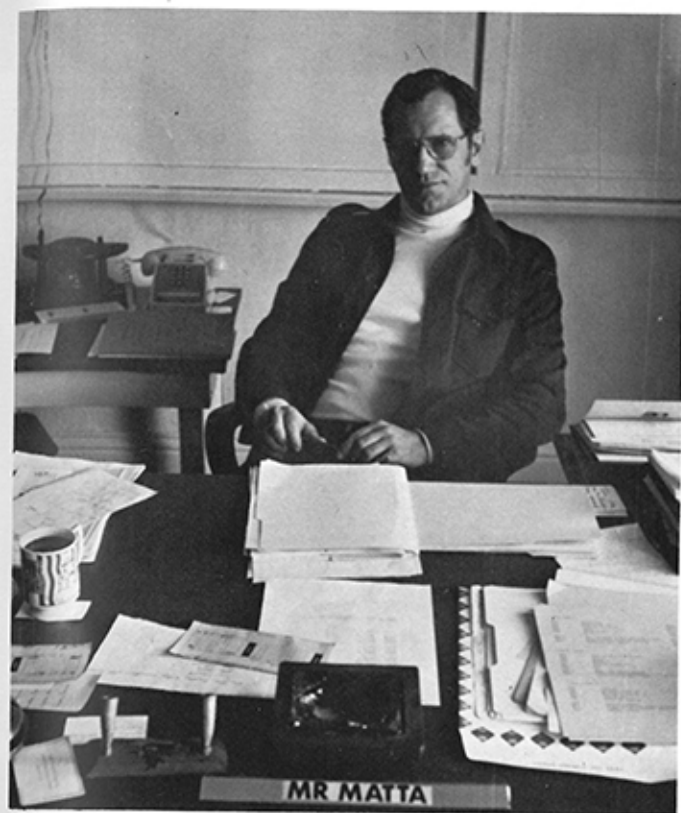

Colonel E. Blythe Hatcher has spent many years guiding the course of CMA.

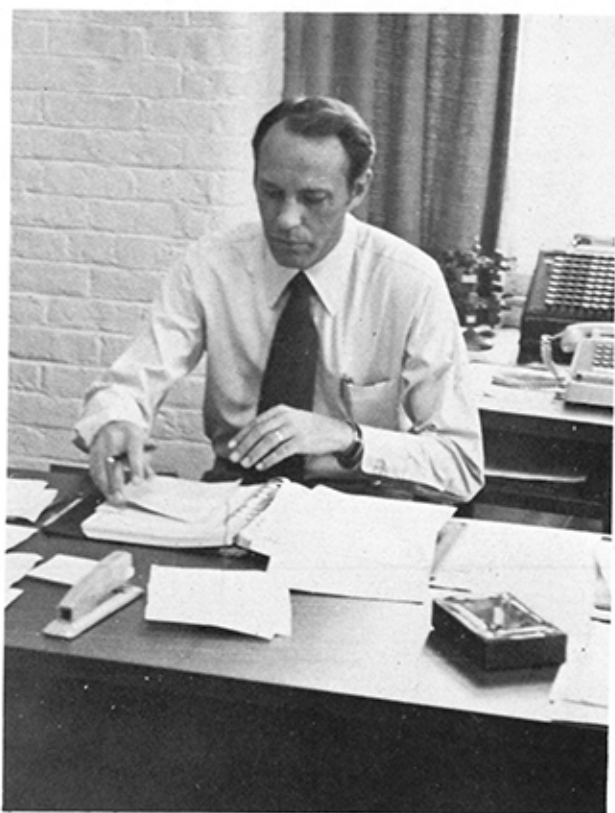

All institutions must be guided by strong, competent leaders if they are to survive the competitive situations they find themselves in today. CMA, in addition to being an institution of learning, is a business. Mrs. Catherine Derryberry, business manager, has the task of keeping the records and the accounts straight. Other administration members help her by keeping paper work and hassels to a minimum. The end result—quality education—is well worth the effort.

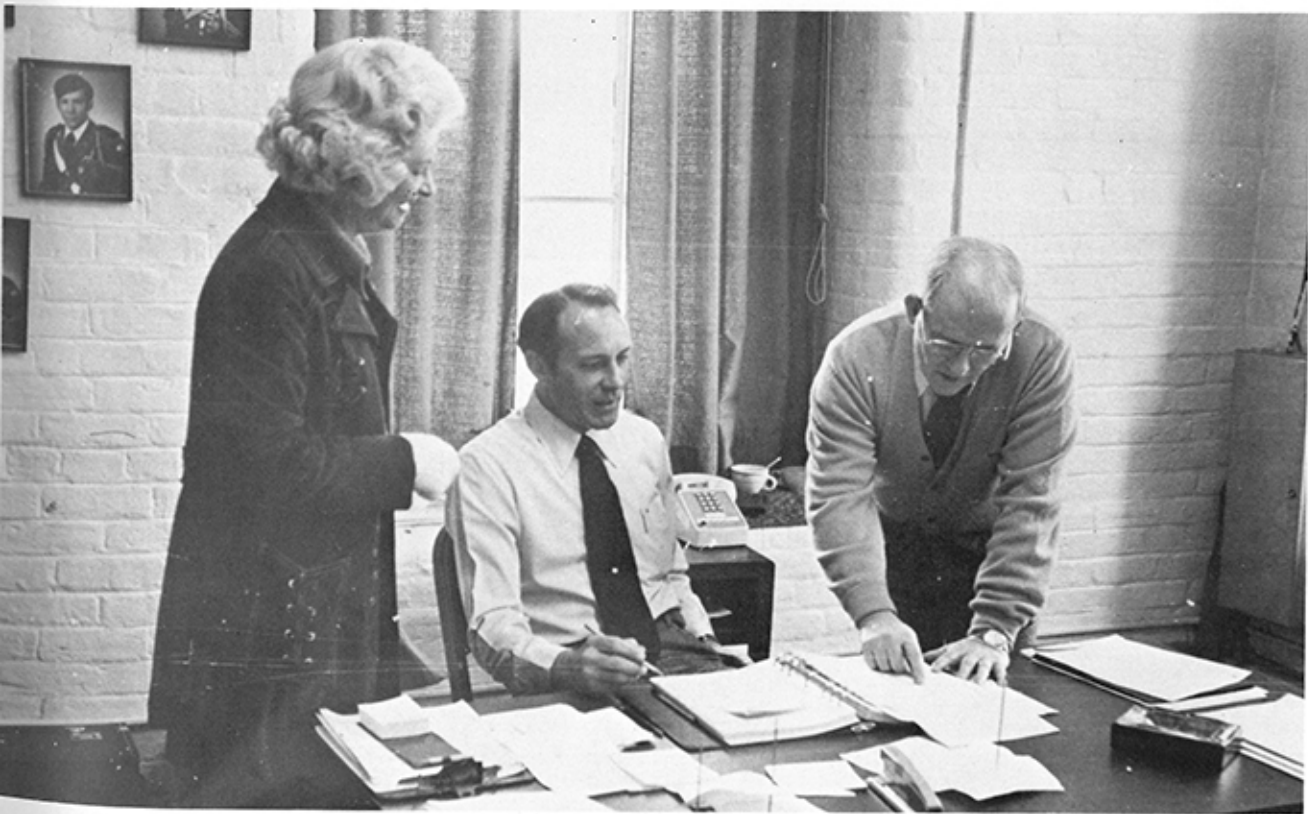

Dean of Admissions, Mr. Frank Bellamy, spends many hours answering letters of inquiry about CMA.

Mr. Bernard J. Matta is responsible for making out the Nova schedule, and adding up the total number of credits one has acquired.

Major Richard Fly, Commandant, is responsible for keeping the school running on an even keel, and cadets out of trouble.

School nurse, Mrs. Gwen Lollar, and assistant commandant, Bill Harris, often confer with Major Fly about their day's routine.

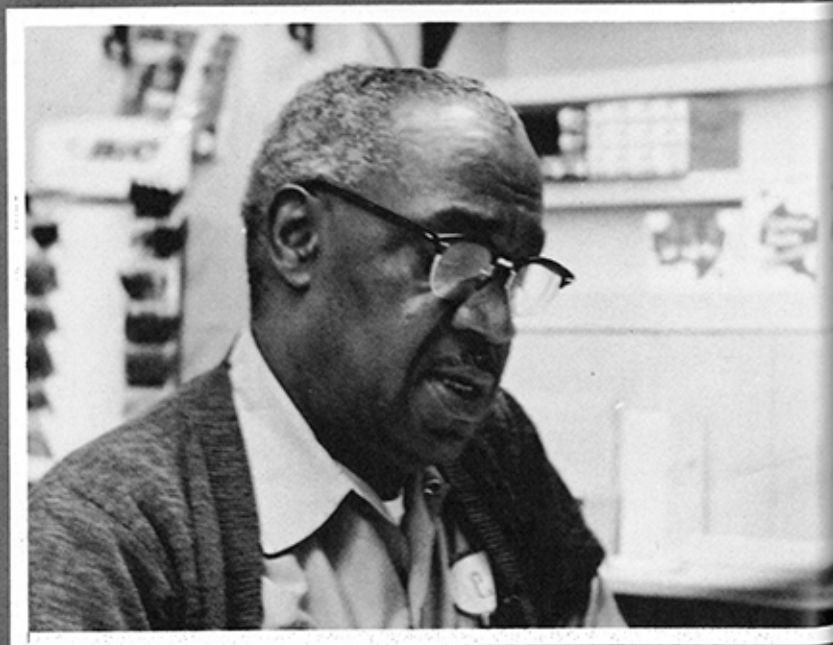

A Lot of Work, But Little Credit

Mrs. Mariemma Grimes, Secretary to the President, always finds time in her busy schedule to help students or faculty to take care of almost anything.

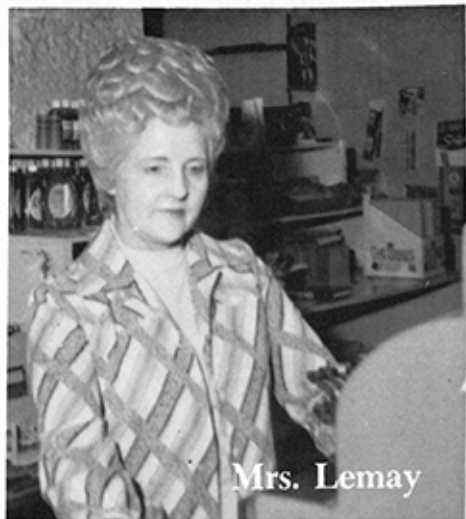

Mrs. Margaret Bain takes care of the Alumni records correspondence.

Mr. Johnson has spent many years operating the quarter master's office.

NOVA

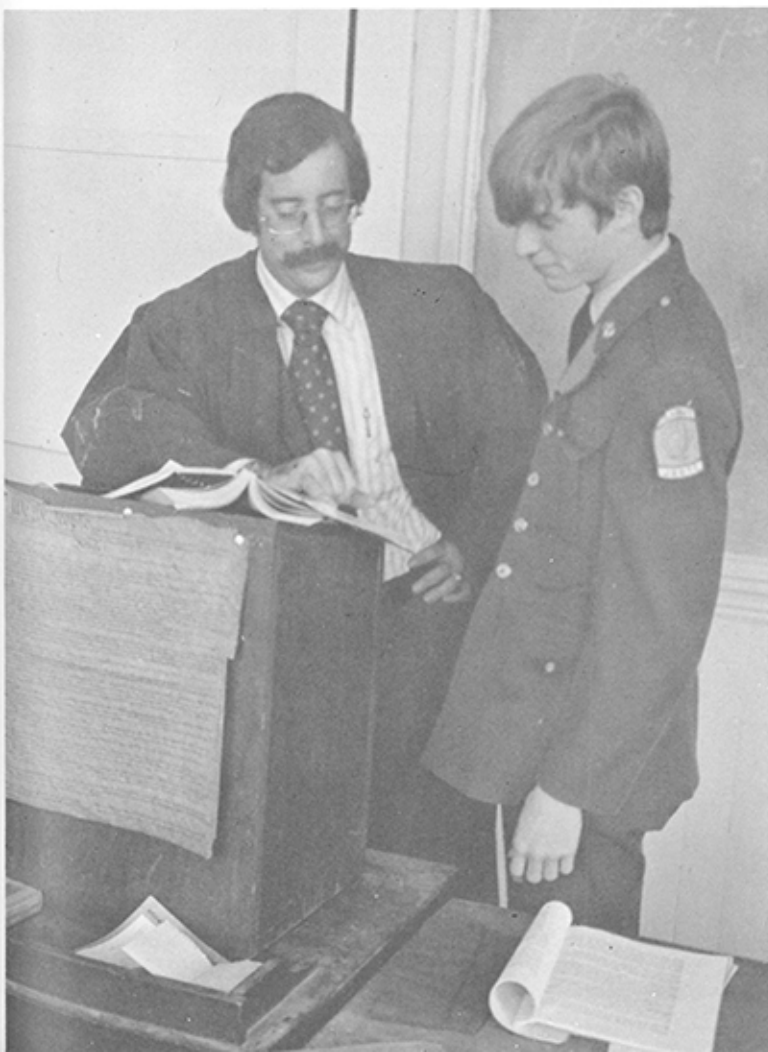

Mr. Matta does some last minute schedule juggling on Laura Frake's B Nova.

Mr. Matta and Mrs. Priest, secretary, stand in front of the scheduling miracle (monstrosity?) known as the Nova board.

Ms. Noble, counselor, discusses information from his permanent record file with Randy Roy.

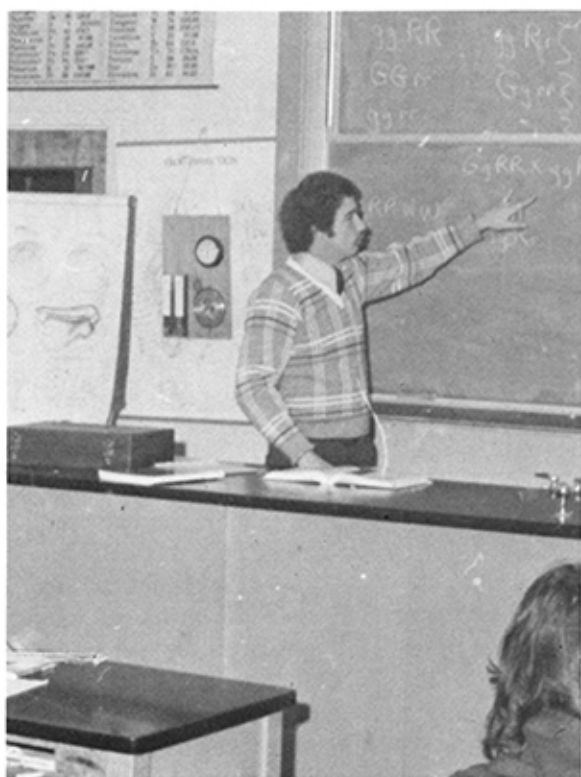

UNIQUE CURRICULUM

The general definition given when one might ask "what's a Nova?" probably would have something to do with stars or star systems. But not at CMA. To the CMA cadets, a Nova has been a unique and sometimes mystifying experience in education. An innovative program, the Nova system provides seven twenty-four day grading periods per school year. Each grading period is called a Nova. During each Nova, the student studies comprehensively the subjects he has chosen for that period. The next Nova, he will study something totally different, under different teachers, with different classmates. One thing the Nova system offers is plenty of variety.

Mr. Hann (and other faculty members as well) sometimes has a little difficulty explaining to students that it is possible to study the whole Civil War in twenty-four days.

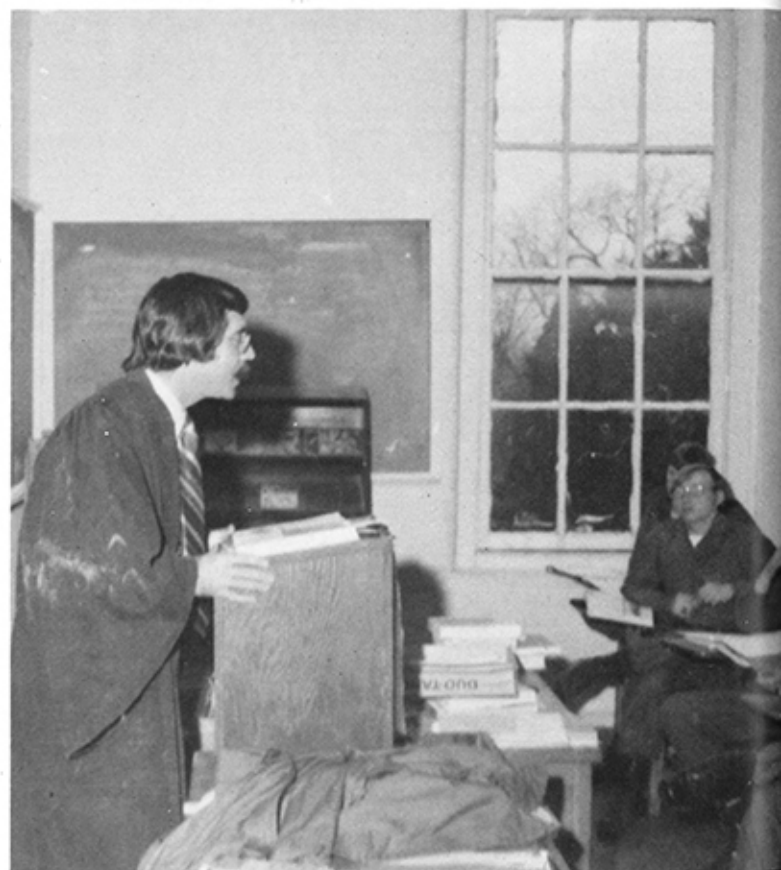

MR. FLY

Mr. Fly received his B.A. from Lambuth and his M.A. from Middle Tennessee. After serving as Junior School Commandant for many years, this year he moved up to Senior School Commandant, along with his regular math teaching duties.

MR. CHUNN

Mr. Chunn received his B.S. degree from Southwestern in Biology and Chemistry. One of the highlights of his teaching year came when he taught his memorable class "Life in the Pond".

MR. HANN

Mr. Hann received his B.A. from Sewanee and his M.A. from M.T.S.U. Teaching History and English at C.M.A., he finds, creates a great need for versatility.

MS. HASSE

Mrs. Hasse received her B.M.E. and M.M.E. from Central Michigan University. She has taught elementary music for sometime, but this year at C.M.A. she broadened her teaching field through classes in all 12 grades.

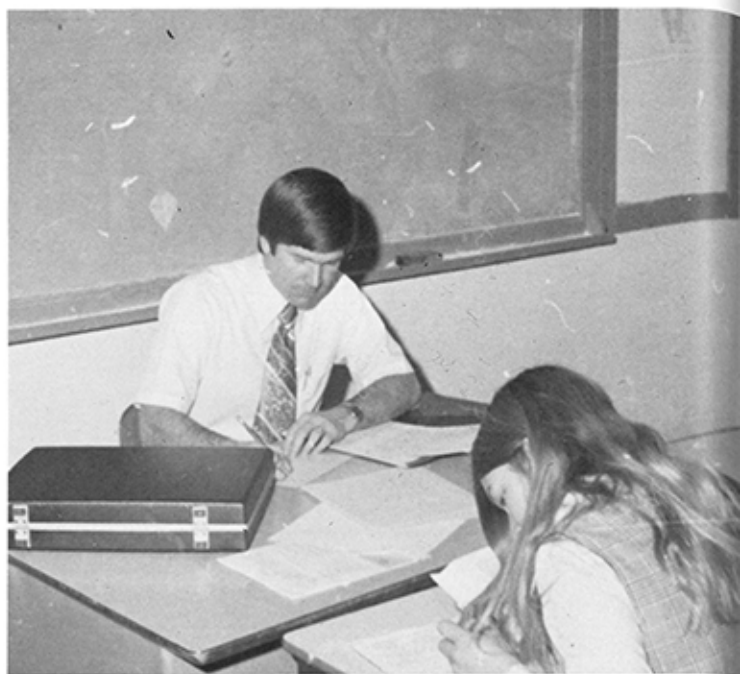

MR. BAKER

Mr. Baker received his B.A. degree from Emory and Henry College in Virginia and his M.A. from the University of Tennessee. He has taught French and History this year, in addition to conducting a total immersion class which took him and his students to Greece for nine days.

FACULTY

MR. LOVELL

Coach Lovell received his B.S. at David Lipscomb and his M.A. at M.T.S.U. He teaches economics and political science in addition to being the head football coach.

MS. LOVELESS

Miss Loveless received her B.S. from David Lipscomb University and is currently completing a Masters in reading. She is the reading specialist at C.M.A., and works with all grade levels.

MR. HOWELL

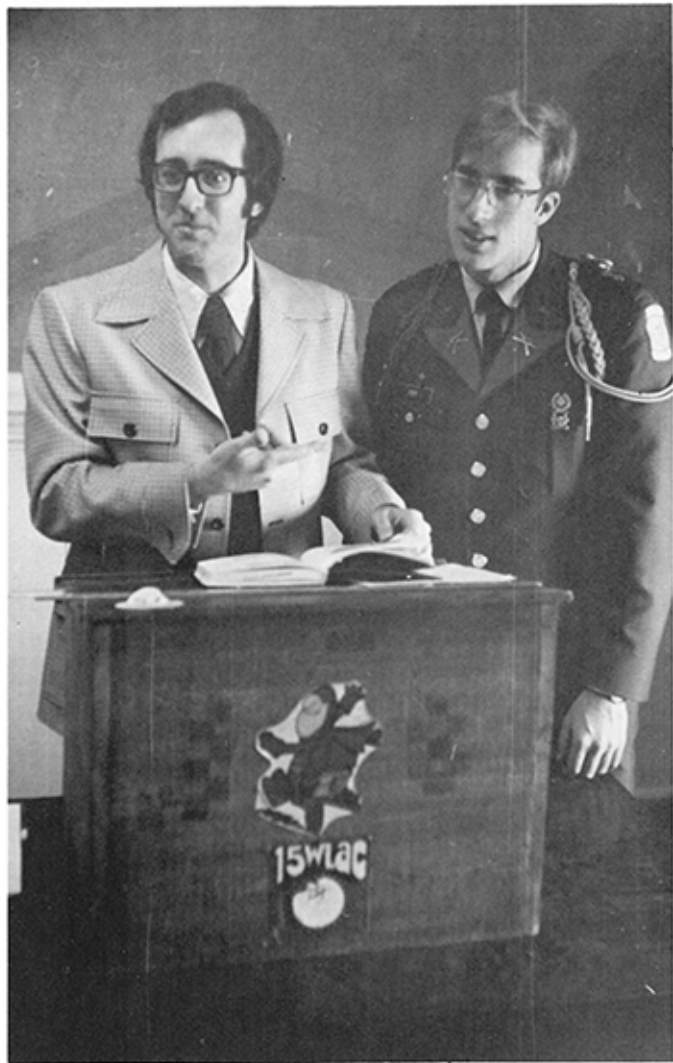

Coach Howell received his B.S. and M.A. at Middle Tennessee. In addition to his Science and math teaching duties, he serves as the Girls' Basketball coach and the Baseball Coach.

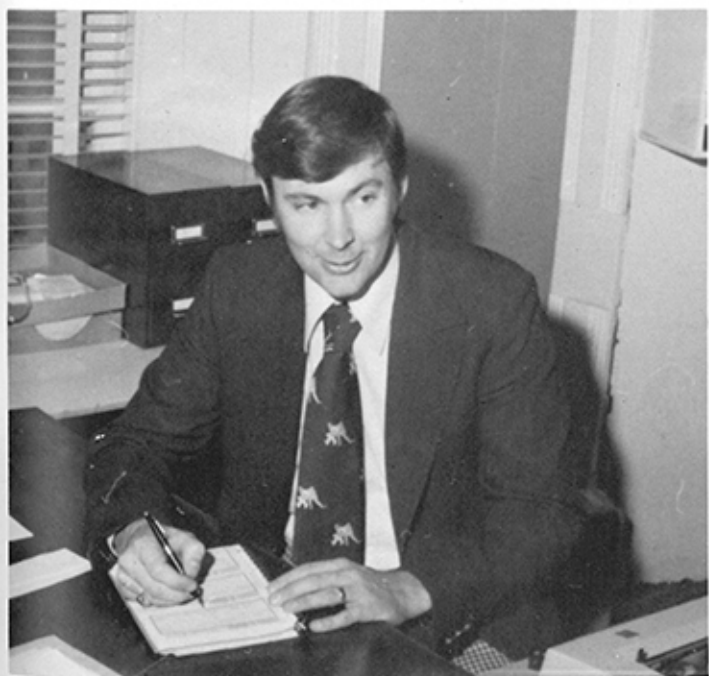

MS. HOWELL

Mrs. Howell received her B.S. and M.A. at Middle Tennessee. This year she has taught subjects such as typing, business math, and career education.

MR. LONG

Mr. Long received his B.S. and M.A. at M.T.S.U. He teaches advanced math, coaches tennis, soccer, and plays a lot of handball.

MR. LANDERS

Coach Landers received his B.S. at the University of Tennessee. He teaches math, is head Basketball coach, and serves as Director of Athletics.

FACULTY

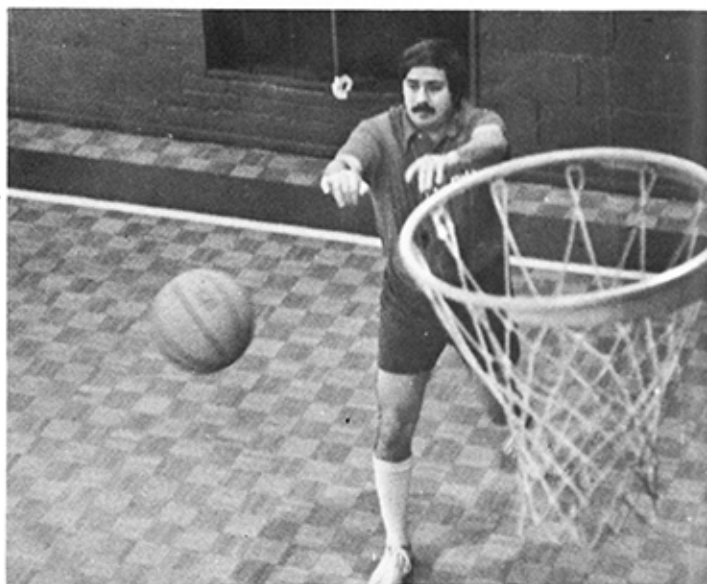

Ms. Marks

Miss Marks received her B.A. from DePaul University. This year, in addition to teaching Latin, she prepared JCL members for state competition where they did very well.

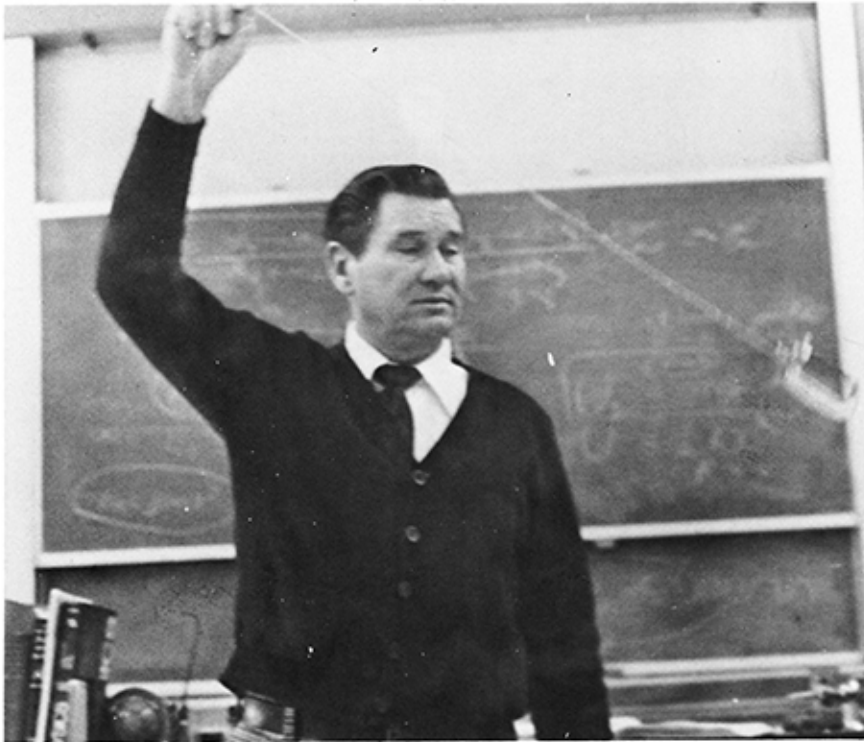

Col. Martin

Col. Martin received his Bachelor of Music from Martin Band School, Hendrix College. He is no stranger to C.M.A. From 1931-45 he taught History and was Band director, then he became commandant and taught History until 1953. IN 1975 he returned as Band director and history teacher.

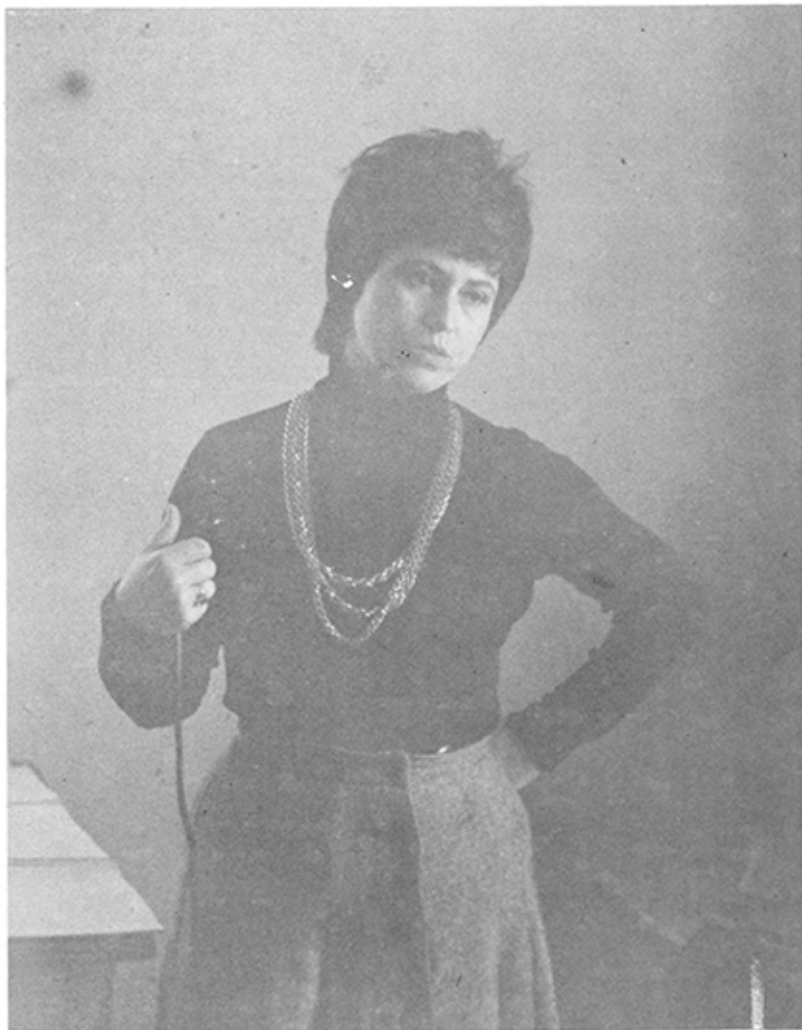

Mr. Matlock

Mr. Matlock received his B.S. from Belmont College. He teaches Middle School Science and some stand-out high school classes such as herpetology. In addition to his teaching, he assists in basketball and baseball.

Mr. Murphy

Mr. Murphy received his B.S. from Tennessee Tech and his M.A. from Peabody. Teaching college-bound science classes leaves him little extra time, but he does manage to coach wrestling, too.

Ms. Newman

Mrs. Newman received her B.A. from Peabody in Art. She has taught Art in all 12 grades this year, plus contrived several outstanding decorations for C.M.A. events.

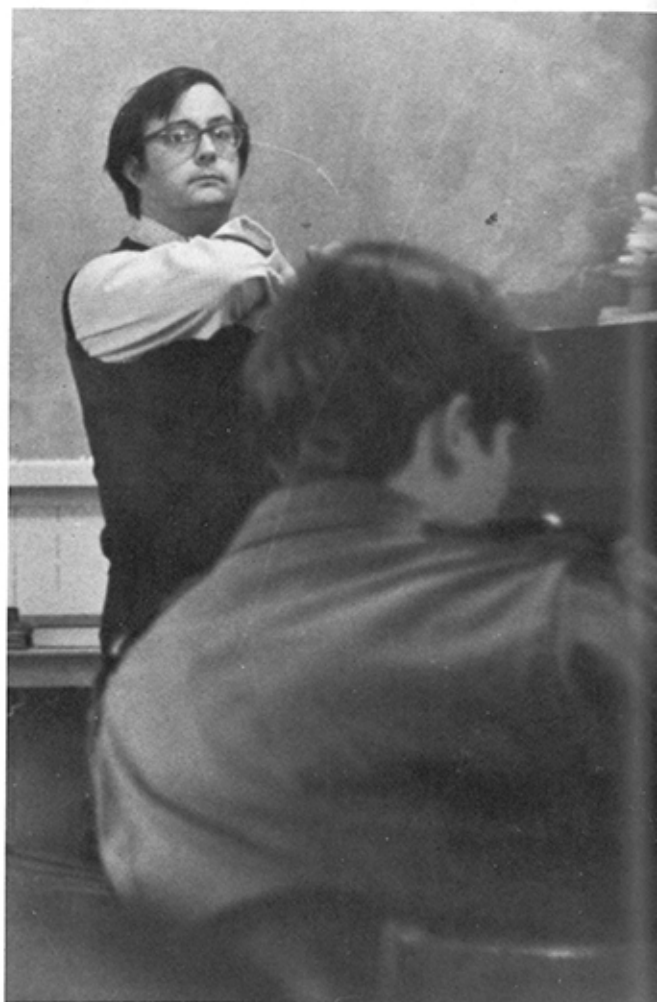

Ms. Noble

Ms. Noble received her B.S. and M.A. from Austin Peay State University in psychology. She teaches psychology, sociology, and journalism. She is also sponsor of the RECALL and the BUGLE CALL.

Mr. Rose

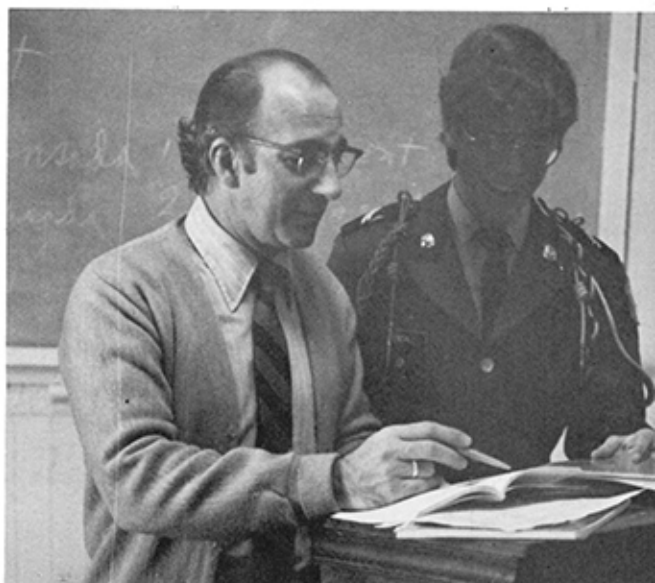

Mr. Rose received his B.S. from Sewanee and his M.A. from Peabody. He teaches English, and assists in arrangements for social functions.

Mr. Shields

Mr. Shields holds a B.A. degree and an M.A.C.T. from the University of Tennessee. In addition he holds an Ed.S. degree from Peabody. He helped set up the Nova program, teaches English, and produced CMA's only theatre production this year.

Mr. Piperno

Mr. Piperno received his B.A. from Catholic University and an M.A. in Spanish from Pittsburgh University. He also holds an M.A. in guidance and counseling from George Washington University. He teaches Spanish and English, and is Middle School football coach as well as being assistant wrestling coach.

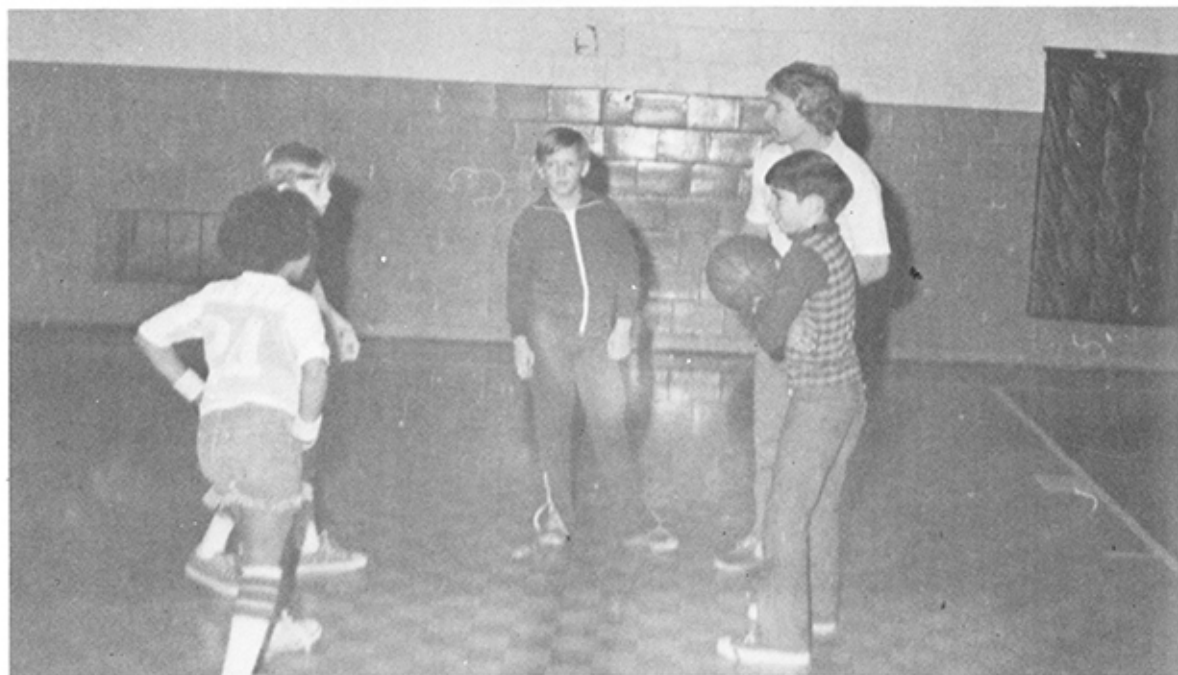

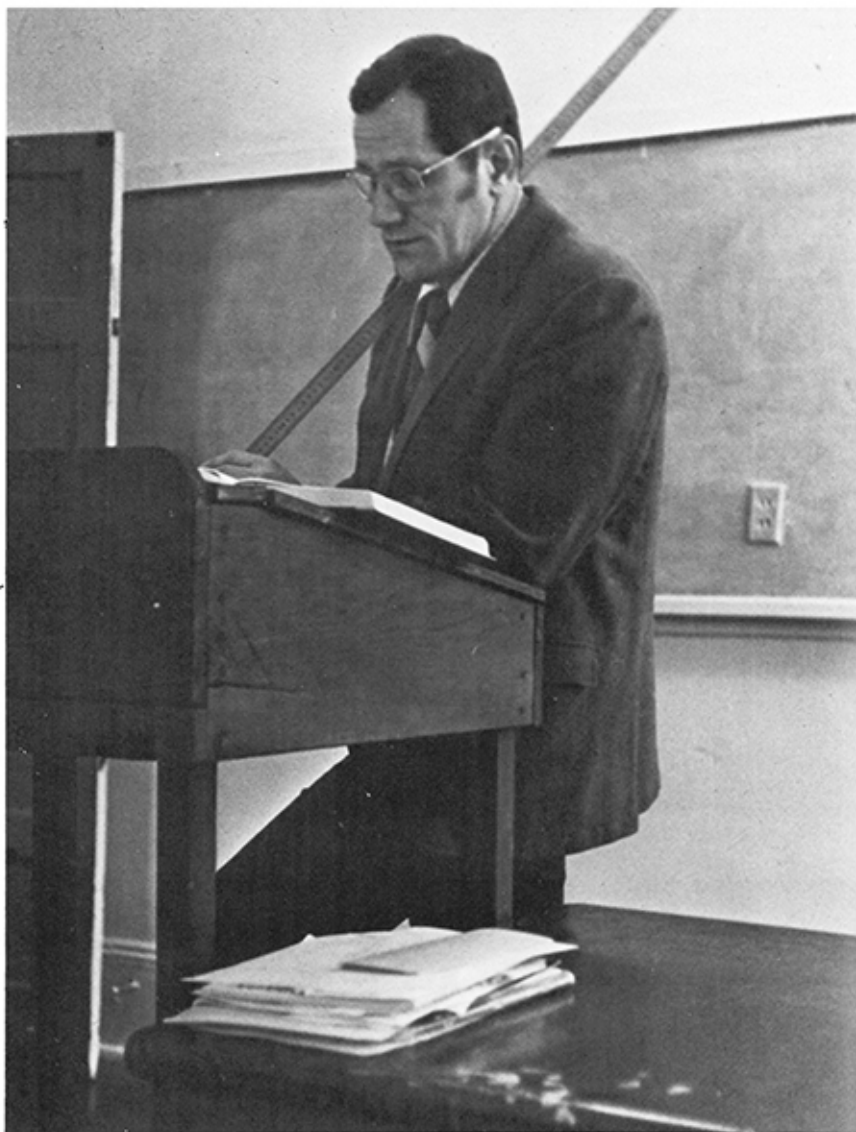

Mrs. Stephenson

Mrs. Stephenson received her B.S. and M.A. in library science from Peabody. She is the CMA librarian, and has spent a large portion of her time this year in the enlarging and redecorating of the library.

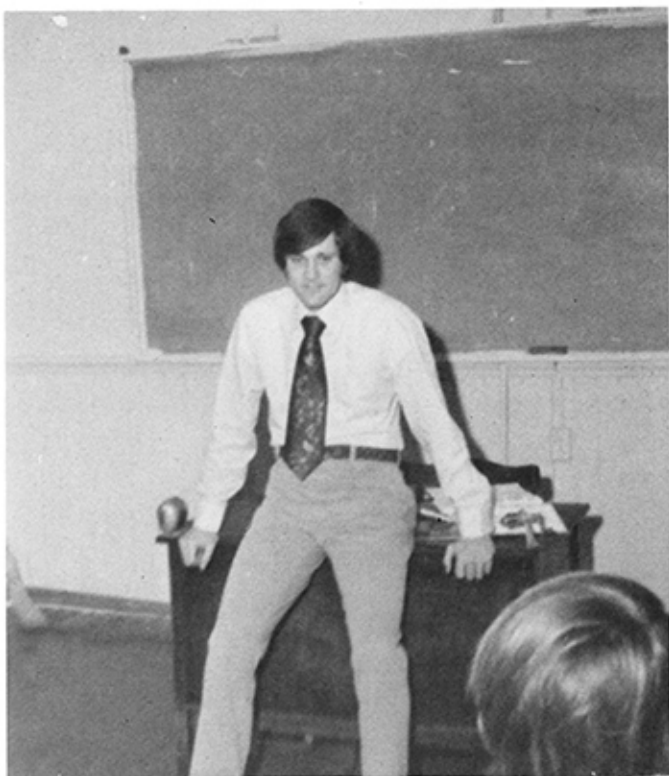

Mr. Matta

Mr. Matta received his B.S. and M.A. from George Washington University. This year he has had the nearly impossible task of coordinating the Nova schedule, getting everyone's class schedule out on time, and teaching math to boot. Somehow he managed to survive all plus coaching golf in the spring.

Mr. Taylor

Coach Taylor received his B.A. from Salisbury State College and his M.S. from the University of Tennessee. He teaches health and phys ed classes and has devoted much time to the cross-country, track, and soccer teams.

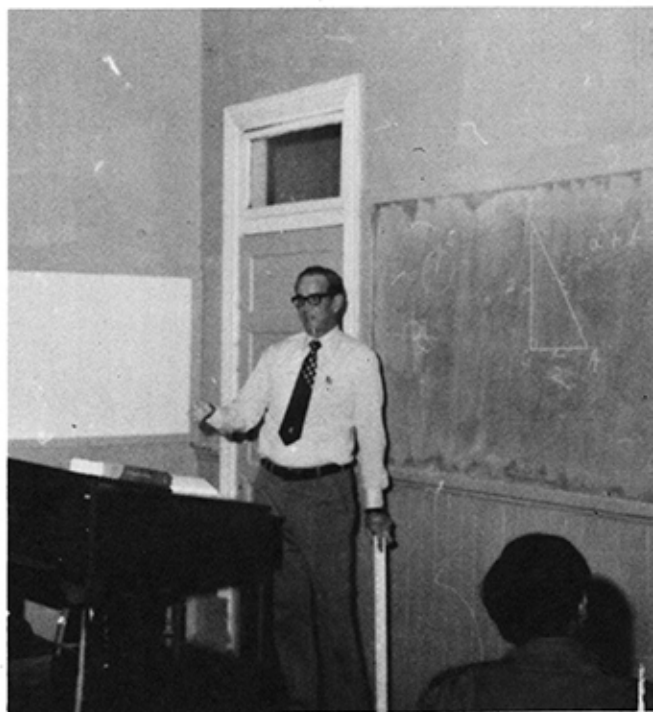

Mr. Stocstill

Coach Stocstill received his B.S. from M.T.S.U. He teaches industrial arts class and career education. One of his class projects this year was to build a small basketball goal for the Lower School. In addition, he serves as assistant football and basketball coach and is head coach of the Middle School basketball team.

Ms. Taylor

Mrs. Taylor received her B.A. from the University of Tennessee. This year she has sponsored the cheerleaders and taught phys. ed. classes to all 12 grades.

Col. Hatcher

Col. Hatcher received his B.S. and M.A. from George Peabody college. Plus his heavy duties as headmaster, he has taught several algebra classes.

MILITARY SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

The seventy years CMA has been in existence have been spent as a first-rate military school. Over the years, CMA graduates have distinguished themselves in three major wars, and have achieved well in many civic activities. The tradition of being an old and respected military school motivates today's cadets to retain each year the coveted designation "ROTC Honor School" which is determined by a government inspection. Offering a discipline and a dignity that many people still feel is a worthwhile attribute, the military program offered at CMA has kept it unique and elite in a period of stereotyping and mass production.

Sgt. Raymond Holland, Head of the Military Science Department

During "Jungle Survival", a class taught by Sgt. Holland, he and the cadets floated (?) down the Buffalo River.

Battalion Commander Van McMinn, Executive Officer Bill Ryland, S/3 Tad Stratton, S/2 Ben Stephens, and S/5 Eddie Hill prepare for a parade.

Principal of the Lower School, Mr. Larry Noble, divides his time between teaching fifth grade and his administrative duties.

Lower School Editor Patty Johnson confers with Mr. Noble, Mrs. Pat Thomas, advisor, and John David Eley, typist.

Mrs. Jean Harmon, Lower and Middle School secretary, also supervises the library and generally rides herd on everyone in Denham Hall.

Mrs. Tee Billingsley, second and third grade teacher, works with reading flash cards with the second grade.

Mrs. Ceci Williams, first grade teacher, reads tales of adventure to her class.

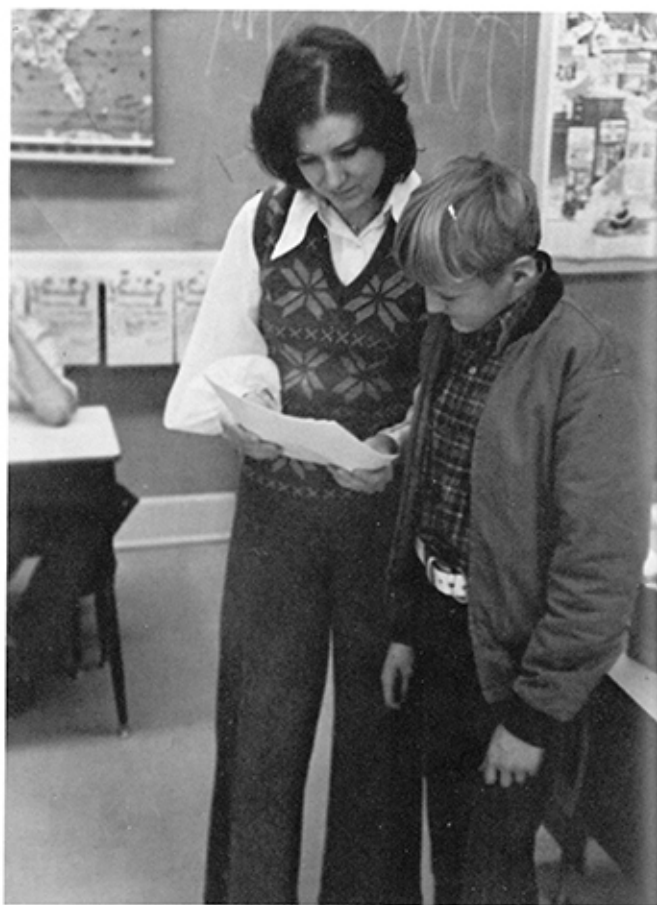

Fourth grade teacher, Mrs. Mary Neal, finds that there is quite a bit of preparation necessary to keep fourth graders occupied.

Dedication

The 1976 Recall, due to the historical significance of the year, is not dedicated to any individual as it has been in the past. There are many additions to the C.M.A. faculty, and nearly everyone has given largely of himself and his time in what has been a very trying year. Thus it would be unfair to single out an individual and say that he, more than any other, deserves special recognition.

In light of the problems faced this year and the hopes all C.M.A. students have for improvement, the '76 Recall is dedicated to the future of C.M.A., and the United States—the future of the school and the people that pass through this great institution on their way to maturity, who are being trained, by accident or design, to be the leaders of our nation.
